When a buyer has the intention to purchase the property, the buyer and the seller will sign a reservation contract. The buyer pays a reservation fee of 6 000 euros to the buyer's legal representatives client account, or to the real estate agent. When the reservation contract is signed the seller provides the buyer with the above-mentioned documents which is necessary for due diligence. 2. When the due diligence process is finalized and the parties have reached the final agreement, the seller and the buyer sign a private contract which specifies the terms and conditions which the parties have agreed on. The buyer pays 10 % of the purchase price minus the reservation fee to the client account. 3. Traditionally the buyer's legal representative arranges an appointment for signing the public deeds at the Notary and preparing the new public deeds together with the seller representatives. The normal payment method is payment by bank check when signing the deeds. 4. The buyer will pay all the administration cost for the change of ownership, except the local Plus Valia tax, which is paid by the seller. If the seller is non-resident in Spain, the Plus Valia tax will be deducted from the purchase price and the payment will be administrated by the buyer. 5. Withholding of 3 % non-resident tax of the purchase price. If the seller is non-resident in Spain, the 3 % non-resident tax will be deducted from the purchase price and the payment will be administrated by the buyer. When the seller declares the profit or loss from the sale, the 3 % non-resident tax will be deducted from the final capital gains tax. If the 3 % withholding tax is higher than the final capital gains tax Agencia Tributaria will repay the surplus to the seller. If the 3 % withholding tax is less than the final capital gains tax the seller have to make an additional payment to Agencia Tributaria on the difference. 6. The fees to the real estate agent will normally be deducted from the purchase price and the invoice will be paid by the buyer's legal representative. There will normally be a notation of this in the deeds. 7. Each party pays their own legal cost. 8. Normally the parties agree on a prorated regulation of prepaid cost such as IBI etc. 9. The buyer will have 2 weeks to change the utility contracts. 10. The seller has to cancel home insurance, internet etc, unless the parties have agreed otherwise. 11. Finally the buyers will arrange the change of ownership in the land register. 12. The seller is obligated to provide a valid energy certificate for the property. Encumbrances in the land registry which is not expired. This property remains subject, for a period of five years, to the transaction/legal act that gave rise to the registration, in relation to any assessments that may be issued under the Transfer Tax and Stamp Duty (I.T.P./A.J.D.) -2- arising therefrom.
